Paris, Jan. 17th.—The Senate has re-elected M. Leroyer President.

Bordeaux, Jan 17th.—The repairs to the French steam packet "Brésil", belonging to the "Messageries Maritimes", now being completed, she starts this evening from Pauillac for the River Plate direct.

Lisbon, Jan. 17th.—The popular excitement on the Anglo-Portuguese question continues, but it is not thought that any ulterior complication is likely to ensue. It is reported that the Cortes will be prorogued at any moment. The new Ministry has been well received by public opinion.

Madrid, Jan. 17th.—The health of the young king is improving daily.

Cannes, Jan. 17th.—Dom Pedro arrived here last night,

GALVESTON.

London, Jan. 17th—The report that the Government are thinking of a dissolution of Parliament as soon as possible after the Budget is approved or in the event of serious opposition, so as without delay to take the opinion of the country on questions of the day, is believed to be well founded.

Lisbon, 17th—The principal commercial houses here and in Oporto are preparing a protest against the English ultimatum; the despatch of English men-of-war is considered damaging to Portuguese commerce. Twenty officers have been arrested for joining in demonstrations against England. It is believed that a British squadron will shortly visit the Tagus. Portuguese merchants intend to boycott English commerce and to refuse to receive British money. Pimentel stated in the Chamber of Deputies that the Government have taken every possible step in this grave emergency, and that Portugal had Right on her side while England had Might; but that, nevertheless, the Government would maintain the rights of the nation without losing sight of the national honour.

Ottawa, Ont., Jan. 17th.—On the opening of Parliament Stanley mentioned that, on his recent journey to the North, he was delighted with the universal expressions of loyalty.

WEST COAST TELEGRAMS

Santiago, Jan. 17th.—Telegrams from Lima announce that the contract between the Peruvian Government and the bondholders has been noted as a public document.

Bolivia, Jan. 17th.—Riots have taken place in Cochabamba, which had to be quelled by the aid of troops of the line. The convoy squadron has started for Cochabamba. The President has accepted the resignation of the Minister of Justice, Sr. Melquiades Lañega, Sr. Jenaro San Jines taking his place.

MONTEVIDEO

January 17.

There will be another electioneering meeting of Senators and Deputies to-night. They mean to choose a candidate to oppose Herrera.

The Epoca says that President Tajes has again declared that he will support no candidate, but that he considers Herrera the worst that could be proposed.

Bocayuva has refused to put up at the Argentine Legation and will go to the Hotel Oriental.

Dr Zeballos and party have arrived.

The Riachuelo will not be here till Tuesday.

Bolsa very brisk. There is also a movement in land, and big transactions are on foot.

Weather fine.

Special Telegram.

Jan. 17th.—Bocayuva left Rio in the iron-clad Riachuelo on Thursday afternoon and is expected here on Monday.

Dr. Zeballos and Minister Alencar have arrived to meet him; extensive preparations are being made. Official honors have been decreed to him. Magarinos Cervantes and Enrique Arrascaeta are appointed presidents of the reception committee.

More regattas are being organised.

Bolsa quieter to-day; Obras opened at 37, rose to 38 and closed at 37½. National Banks 108. Other stocks very dull.

(From the Interior.)

Rosario, 17—Mr. Deolindo Munoz has published a manifesto explaining the reasons of his leaving the Bank Board. He makes very serious charges against high-placed dignitaires. Great sensation has been caused by the manifesto, and it is expected that we have not heard the last of it.

Parana, 17—Yesterday was the third anniversary of the Basavilbaso administration. The Governor was warmly congratulated.

Salta, 17—There is a tremendous lawsuit on the tapis about 180 leagues of land granted by former governments to private parties, who have not yet paid a cent and never carried out the conditions under which the grants were made.

The trading public are much annoyed with the railway company. The old story. They intend sending a petition to the President of the Republic.

Cordoba, 17—The President arrived yesterday at half past six in the morning. He went to the Governor's house, where he was occupied in shaking hands till 11, when the whole party, 100 in number, sat down to breakfast. In the evening he withdrew to Las Rosas, his chalet. Nothing new.

COST OF GOVERNMENT.

Mr. Latzina, Government Statistician, has done the country good service by putting in book-form all the taxation laws of the Republic, both National and Provincial, including the respective budgets for the year 1888 compared with the previous year 1887. The respective budgets form a most interesting comparison and their study will be of vital importance to the tax-payer. The following table of the National and Provincial budgets shows the situation at a glance:—

	1887.	1888.
Nat. Government	47,017,631	51,891,255
B. Ayres "	15,325,323	15,325,328
Santa Fé "	1,794,724	2,664,026
E. Rios "	1,372,726	2,198,848
Corrientes "	704,268	787,840
Cordoba "	1,105,580	2,044,165
S. Luis "	290,569	216,689
Mendoza "	608,227	534,368
S. Juan "	264,611	319,116
Rioja "	175,761	331,810
Catamarca "	204,607	338,269
Santiago "	295,375	396,171
Tucuman "	602,680	602,680
Salta "	281,686	280,966
Jujuy "	96,650	89,742
	70,140,426	78,012,279

Thus in the year 1879 it took 78 million dollars to govern this republic of four million souls, say $19.50 per head of the population. Some people may clamor against such an enormous ratio per head, but thanks to the providential blessings of forced currency, considerable allowance must be made for the depreciation of the bank-note. Taking gold at say 100 o/o premium, the ratio of Government expenditure per inhabitant would be $9.75 gold, say 39 shillings. Now let us compare this ratio of Government expenditure per inhabitant with that of other countries:—

	Shillings
Argentine Republic	39
United Kingdom	47
France	68
Germany	40
Russia	20
Austria	40
Italy	40
Spain	40
Portugal	36
Holland	50
Belgium	42
Denmark	24
Greece	45
Turkey	60
European average	39
United States	21
Brazil	23
Canada	27
Australia	141
Cape Colony	90
Average in the world	25

We beg to remark that the above figures for foreign countries are for the year 1881. Argentines and foreigners settled in this country cannot complain that the cost of governing is too burdensome, at least so long as taxation is kept at the present level and gold stands above 100 o/o premium. The higher gold rises, at least up to a certain stage, the more difficult is any increase in taxation, and the cheaper is the cost of Government. Thus forced currency with all its curses has some collateral, perhaps dubious, blessings to recommend it; it carries with it a forcible retrenchment evidenced by the reduction in Government expenditure, the lower incidence of taxation, etc. etc.

To the above table of national and provincial budgets we may add the following statement of the principal municipal budgets in 1888:—

The capital	8,884,994
La Plata	225,459
Rosario	573,867
Santa Fe	66,458
Parana	103,099
Corrientes	45,780
Cordoba	541,875
Mendoza	140,168
San Juan	66,979
Catamarca	24,699
San Luis	28,306
Salta	112,794
Jujuy	17,955
	10,832,434

Limiting our remarks to the city of Buenos Ayres, we see that the municipal government cost in 1888 at the rate of $17.75 per inhabitant, calculating the population at half a million. This paper ratio to-day is more or less at the rate of $8.87 gold per soul, say £1.15. This ratio of municipal government compares as follows with other great cities of the world:—

London	2 9
Manchester	3.3
Paris	4.7
San Francisco	4.1
Trieste	3.7
Antwerp	2.1
Berlin	2.0
Birmingham	4.0
Bradford	6.0
Florence	5.7
Liverpool	5.9
Rome	2 7
Vienna	2.5
Venice	1.4
Turin	2.7

The above figures for foreign cities refer to the years 1880 and 1881. The above comparison affords another instance of how forced currency has forcibly cheapened the cost of municipal government, but figures are very undeceiving in this regard both in the comparison of national or provincial and municipal government cost. We must make allowance for the many evils of forced currency that laugh to scorn all calculations drawn on the basis of the depreciation of the paper; we must take into consideration the collateral reduction in wages and salaries, the enormously enhanced cost of all commodities and of living in inflated paper, the rise in rents and lands, the shrinkage of credit, etc, etc. Take all in all, it would be better if all this paper taxation were "bona fide" gold taxation: the evil would be less, and the burden would not be so onerous. It would be better for the country if the ratio per head were £6 and that in the city £3.10, for the enjoyment of government protection, and the people were all walking on the sound basis of a convertible currency.

Our Mails.

London, Dec. 21st.

A letter from Mr. Stanley, written when he was at the mission station at Msalala, at the southern end of Lake Victoria, on August 31st, has been published. The traveller refers to his relations with the late Major Barttelot, to whose gallantry he bears the highest testimony.

A telegram from Key West, published in New York, states that two thousand Cubans have made a demonstration in favour of the proposition that the President of the United States should enter into negociations with the Spanish Government with the object of bringing about the independence of Cuba.

Another telegraphic dispatch has been received at the Legation in London from the Brazilian Minister of Finance, contradicting the statement that the late revolution originated with the anti-Abolitionists. On the contrary, it was led by the oldest and most strenuous opponents of slavery.

Sir William Hart-Dyke, Vice-President of the Committee of Council on Education, received a deputation consisting of representatives of elementary teachers in various parts of the country, who recommended that in any future code the aid given out of the Parliamentary grant should depend rather upon the pecuniary needs of each school than upon the result of examinations. There were other suggestions, as to some of which Sir William said he hoped to embody them in the measure he intended to re introduce next session.

Henry F. Watts, a Southampton solicitor, who was tried at the Winchester assizes on the charge of murdering his landlord, a man named Mason, has been acquitted by the jury.

The trial of the French-Brewster divorce case was continued before Mr. Justice Butt, and the evidence on both sides having been closed, Mr. Lockwood, Q.C. addressed the jury on behalf of Captain Ormsby-Gore.

Although not very active, the Stock Markets were firmer. Home railways, some of the American lines, and Grand Trunk improved; but Mexican (Vera) showed dulness. A few of the leading Foreign Government bonds advanced, while others, including Brazilian and Peruvian, declined. Consols for the account receded one eighth per cent.

ENGLAND AND PORTUGAL.

The Press Association is informed, on authority, that "Lord Salisbury has written a note to the Portuguese Government couched in strong terms. This was presented on Thursday to Senhor Barros Gomez, Foreign Secretary to the Portuguese Government, by Mr. Petre, British Minister at Lisbon. Lord Salisbury's Note takes the form of a remonstrance at the action of Portugal in South-East Africa, and calls inferentially for the repudiation of the Portuguese agent's action in the Zambesi country. No threats are used, but the document contains a plain statement of facts, a demand for the resumption of the status quo in South-East Africa, and the repudiation of Major Serpa Pinto's recent action. It is intimated that the British Government cannot by any means countenance the lowering of the British flag hoisted by a responsible representative."

ARGENTINE BANKING.

No banking institution, we believe, has ever exhibited such remarkable expansion as has fallen to the lot of the London and River Plate Bank, Limited. From a comparative pigmy it has shot up within a few years into a veritable giant, and the latest balance-sheet made up to the 30th September last presents a picture of almost unexampled prosperity. Assets reach the remarkable total of £16,203,166 14s. 9d. liabilities falling short of this sum by £353,901 only. For the twelve months dealt with in the report there was a gross profit of £429,992 13s. 3d., after providing for bad and doubtful debts, whilst the net profit, not including £43,239 16s. 1d. brought forward from the previous statement, amounted to £340,661 9s. 3d. In all, according to the audited figures, the Bank realised a clear surplus of £383,901 5s. 3d., enabling the directors to pay 15 per cent for the year, to add £100,000 to the reserve fund, raising it to £600,000, and to further increase the paid up capital from 600,000 to £750000 without making any tangible call upon the shareholders. Even after such achievements as these there was a sum of £43,901 to carry forward to the new year. Another Anglo-Argentine institution, operating throughout the same districts, appears to have performed almost equally well. After making allowance for bad and doubtful debts, the English Bank of the R. Plate, Limited, reveals a gross profit of £180,036, not taking into account the balance of £20,080 brought forward from the preceding balance-sheet. All told, this company had £197,325 17s 4d available for distribution. From that the directors very wisely decided to place £100,000 to reserve, restricting the yearly dividend to 10 per cent on both the old and new shares. For the present, therefore, the reserve fund will stand at £350,000, making, with the paid-up capital of £750,000, a total of £1,100,000 owing to shareholders. The London and River Plate Bank is somewhat better situated in this respect. With the additions now announced, the reserve fund will stand at £600,000, and the paid-up capital at £750,000, or together £1,350,000, but it must not be lost sight of that its liabilities to depositors and others are proportionately heavier. In both cases there will remain a reserve liability amounting to £750,000, so that in the one instance the Bank's customers are secured to the extent of £1,850,000, and in the other to the extent of £2,100,000.

Whether these reserves will ultimately prove sufficient can only be decided in the future, but on examining the balance-sheets of both undertakings in connection with the terrible depreciation visible in the Argentine currency, it is impossible to avoid some misgiving. This, notwithstanding the London and River Plate report contains one re-assuring utterance—"With reference to the depreciation in the Argentine paper currency, all liabilities payable in gold are represented by assets payable in gold." A moment's reflection will show that such may very well be the fact; nevertheless, the Bank may have already incurred, or may presently incur, heavy losses as a result of its free advances during the past few years. Inflation has affected all kinds of property in the Argentine Republic, and in many instances and directions speculation has been carried almost to the pitch of madness. Knowing this, and with the example of the New Zealand Bank before us, it is difficult to believe that the Nemesis which pursues over-speculation will not punish all classes of this go-ahead community. If failures occur—and they are bound to occur on a widespread scale before long—how can lending institutions hope to escape losses? Already, as we know from the S. American journals, failures are becoming inconveniently frequent, and a few months hence, as a consequence of diminishing credit and contracted commerce, the Argentine Republic is likely to find itself in the throes of a commercial panic. A glance at the last five reports of the London and River Plate Bank shows that over five millions sterling was received and lent out during the height of the infatuation. On the 30th September, 1885, the Bank owed £4,933,800 in respect of deposits and on current accounts, whilst the assets included the item—Bills discounted, bills receivable, current accounts, and other securities £5,320,432. The corresponding figures now published show increases to £11,344,503 and £10,451,199 respectively. In other words, this Argentine enterprise has increased its loans at the rate of a million a year on the average—on what description of property, and on what terms as to value, it would be to the point to learn. The growth of the five principal items in the balance sheet is so remarkable that we prefer to show them in tabular form. The three first columns represent liabilities and the last two assets.

	Bills payable	Deposits and current accounts.	Cash	Bills discounted and other securities.
'84-5	1,596,142	4,933,800	2,637,365	5,320,432
'85-6	1'851,266	6 160,804	2,778,689	6,231,597
'86-7	1 940,212	7,328 272	3,057,199	7,858,185
'87-8	2,696,463	9,713,595	3,035,368	9,417,858
'88-9	2,712,825	11,344,503	3,703,356	10,451,199

On the face it would appear as if the cash assets had fairly kept pace with the fluctuating liabilities as shown above, but from Mr. G. W. Drabble's speech at the Cannon-street meeting on Tuesday last it is clearly otherwise. For book-keeping purposes conversion into sterling is made at the exchange of 4s for the Argentine and 4s 3d for the Uruguayan dollar, the result being to produce a statement which appears rather more pleasant than the facts warrant.

Turning to the English Bank of the River Plate, we find that its growth, comparatively steady as a rule, was still more sensational during the past year. On the 30th September, 1887, the deposits and current accounts aggregated 4,865,317l and the bills payable 2,363,663l, against advances of 6,307,183l. A year later the same items had swollen to 5,658,519l, 2,677,991l, and 6,303,828l respectively, while on 30th September last they were 7,652,331l, 2,508,867l and 8,920,487l. The Bank, therefore, lent out no less than 2,616,559l between October 1, 1888, and 30th September, 1889, and it will be a marvel should it escape losses in consequence. To whom could it have lent the money with safety in the then condition of Argentine trade?—and what securities, except bills, can it hold which are not more or less inflated in value? These are questions which it plainly concerns both shareholders and depositors here to ask themselves, and should their reflections result in the managers of these two Banks being constrained to adopt a more cautious policy, they will not in our opinion have much cause to regret the fact two or three years hence.

THE LATE JEFFERSON DAVIS.

Jefferson Davis, President during its brief and stormy existence of the Confederacy of the Southern States of America, nothwithstanding the great part he once played upon the political stage, lived during the last 20 years in retirement and almost in obscurity. In other words, he became an historical personage during his own lifetime. His name can never be forgotten while the American Civil War is remembered, though the judgment of posterity alike upon him and the other chief actors in that great struggle will no doubt be something different from any that is now possible. Jefferson Davis was born in Kentucky on June 3, 1808, and had consequently completed his 81st year. While he was still a child the family removed to the State of Mississippi, with which he was ever afterwards closely connected. His early education was of the ordinary American type, and at the age of 16 he went to the Military Academy at West Point, obtaining four years later a commission as second lieutenant. For the next seven years he seems to have been occupied with military duties, which consisted chiefly in keeping the Indians in check. In 1835 he married the daughter of General, afterwards President, Taylor, and settled down in Mississippi as a cotton planter upon the estate left him by his father. He appears to have led an uneventful life, relieved by a certain amount of local political activity, until 1845, when he was returned as one of the members for Mississippi to the House of Representatives. There he took part in debates upon the burning questions of the time—the state of the army, the tariff, and the joint occupation of Oregon. His speeches of that period are somewhat high-flown, and contain much indignant rhetoric concerning the aims of Southern men and the misconstructions placed upon them by those of the North. Upon the breaking out of the Mexican War he was chosen Colonel of the Mississippi Volunteers, whereupon he resigned his seat and joined the army of his father-in-law on the Rio Grande. He served with distinction at the battle of Buena Vista, assisted at the storming of Monterey, and was one of the commissioners appointed to arrange its capitulation. In recognition of his services, President Polk offered to make him Brigadier-General of Volunteers, but he showed his characteristic political bias by declining the honour on the ground that it was not in the gift of the Federal Government, but of the individual State.

In 1847 Davis was elected Senator for Mississippi, and continued with, if possible, increasing energy his advocacy of State rights against what he conceived to be the unjust and unconstitutional encroachments of the Federal Executive. In 1850 he became Chairman of the Committee on Military Affairs, and in March, 1851, was re-elected Senator for Mississippi, a position thus secured to him for six years.

For some 18 months Mr. Davis was free from the yoke of public cares and devoted his time and attention to his plantation. In the end of 1852, however, he was asked to join the Cabinet of the President-elect, Mr. Pierce, who would come into office in the following March. Mr. Davis declined, but being again pressed, after the inauguration of the President, he became Secretary for War. Under his administration a considerable activity was shown in surveying routes for railway communication between the Mississippi Valley and the Pacific coast, in increasing the efficiency of the army, and in carrying on experiments in gunnery. He seems also to have made some attempt to break through the pernicious system by which every Government post down to the humblest is made part of the plunder of the party attaining to power. During this Presidency the contention between North and South gained in bitterness and even in ferocity. The attention of Congress was largely occupied by the affairs of Kansas, in which disorder had attained the proportions of civil war. A committee of the House visited Kansas, to verify by personal observation the accounts which reached Washington, and were rewarded with indubitable proof that armed invasions from Missouri were a constant feature of election days. Mr Charles Sumner denounced in the Senate what he called the "crime against Kansas," and made uncomplimentary allusions to Butler, the Carolina Senator. Two days afterwards he was attacked while sitting at his desk in the Senate House with so much violence that his life was at first despaired of. Preston Brooks, the representative for South Carolina, was the principal assailant, and was expelled from the House of Representatives in consequence. His constituents immediately returned him, and in two weeks he again took the oaths and his seat. He had the sympathy of the Southern leaders, including Mr Jefferson Davis, who approved "the feeling which prompts the sons of Carolina to welcome the return of a brother who has been the subject of vilification, misrepresentation and persecution, because he resented a libellous assault upon the representative of their mother." There is a curious Hibernian flavour alike about the logic and the rhetoric of this passage.

On the 20th December, 1860, the Convention of South Carolina unanimously adopted an ordinance revoking her delegated powers, and withdrawing from the Union; and on the following day her representatives retired from their seats in Congress. Her example was followed on the following month by Mississippi, and before the end of January Florida, Alabama, Georgia, and Louisiana had seceded from the Union. These States lost no time in organizing themselves into a confederacy, and on the 9th of February, 1861, Mr. Jefferson Davis was chosen its President. So far everything had gone on peacefully, and few people shared Mr. Davis's opinion that the North would not permit secession without war. The leading organs of the victorious party admitted the right of secession, and even taunted the seceding States with not being worth the trouble of retaining in the Union a day longer than they wished to stay.

From this point the biography of Jefferson Davis is the history of the Civil War. In organising his administration he had the advantage of considerable experience in one of the highest posts in the United States Cabinet, and his military knowledge proved exceedingly useful.

After four years of the most desperate efforts to shake off the Northern invaders the Confederate defence was at last broken down, and the fall of Richmond on April 5th, 1865, put an end to the Government of Jefferson Davis. Accused by angry partisans of complicity in the plot to assassinate President Lincoln, a reward of one hundred thousand dollars was offered for his capture. This was about six weeks after his flight from Richmond, and he was carried to Fort Monroe, where he was jealously guarded pending a trial which never took place. The delay caused by the difficulty of deciding in what manner he should be tried probably saved his life by giving time for the dissipation of the absurd suspicion that he had stooped to plan a treacherous murder. In June of the following year, an effort was made to procure his release, but although no resolution had been come to concerning his trial, Congress decided by a large majority that he should remain in prison. At length, after two years' confinement, he was set at liberty, but it was not until other two years had passed that all proceedings were formally abandoned. After the failure of his great enterprise he took no part in public life and, indeed, it may be doubted whether any considerable "role" was open to him. The reconstruction of the Union was badly begun under President Johnson. The Secession States were given over to military law and to the machinations of carpet-baggers; while in the Northern States the ex-President of the Confederacy could have no chance of political success. Jefferson Davis was, besides, probably wise enough to know how great a mistake is an anti-climax. He could not have hoped by any chance to occupy a position comparable to the one he had lost, and his wisest course was the one he took, to retire altogether into private life. He engineered a Texan rail way to the Pacific, wrote a voluminous account of the rise and fall of the Confederate Government, and finally undertook the management of a life assurance company.

Three years ago, when the Democrats were in power, he emerged from his retirement in spite of feeble health and for no reason apparent to the world. He made a sort of political progress through Alabama and Georgia, delivering historical speeches which the Northern Press not inaptly described as the funeral orations of the Confederacy, and calling forth a considerable amount of popular enthusiasm. But the crowds and the shouting had no real significance, as his tour was brought to an abrupt termination by the apprehension of his political friends that it might provoke an injurious reaction of the public sentiment. The leader of the greatest Home Rule movement of modern times was possibly roused to temporary activity by the spectacle of another attempt to disrupt a great Empire made by the man who prematurely committed himself to the opinion that Jefferson Davis had created a nation. The Southern leader at all events had material to deal with out of which a nation could be constructed, while his English imitator has attempted the impossible task of making a nation which, even if the British Empire were annihilated, could not maintain its independence for a single year. Though identified with a gigantic public blunder Jefferson Davis has never been convicted of the tergiversation and self-seeking which are the besetting sins of politicians in troublous times. To have occupied with credit a difficult position, to have fought a losing battle with unquestionable ability and unflinching courage, to have shown magnanimity under a tremendous reverse, and to have borne through all vicissitudes an unsustained character, are achievements which will secure to him an honourable place in his country's history.

A MOUNTAIN OF GOLD.

Such is the title which has been justly given to the great Mount Morgan gold mine, situated in Central Queensland, which is paying at the rate of over a million a year in dividends. The history of the mine, which has only been developed during the last year, is a curious one. The original selector to the freehold portion of this wonderfully rich property, consisting of 640 acres, was one Donald Gordon, who paid 5s. an acre for it and utilized it as grazing land for his cattle. A correspondent of the Sydney Morning Herald who visited the mine some time ago told the readers of that journal how, returning from the mountain, he stopped at a wayside inn, where "a tall, weather-beaten, grizzled-looking man" took his horse to a well to drink:—

This was the original holder of the freehold, who parted with it to the Morgans. He said he had always believed the mountain to be of ironstone; and never knew of the fortune that was so long within his grasp. In olden days he used to sell the pumice-stone looking quartz in Rockhampton, to clean the hearths and doorsteps of the houses.

Gordon sold the freehold to the Messrs. Morgan for £640, or £1 an acre. They discovered gold in 1882, and in that year formed a partnership, in which they held half the mine, while Messrs. T. S. Hall, W. Hall, W. H. D'Arcy, and W. Pattison, who are now four of the principal proprietors, held the second half. The Messrs. Morgan subsequently disposed of their share to these gentlemen for £93,000; and in 1886 the present company was formed with a capital of £1,000,000 in 1,000,000 shares of £1 each, of which 17s. 6d. per share is paid up.

Leaving Rockhampton soon after 6 o'clock in the morning, the traveller is deposited at a roadside station at about 7, and a rough breakfast is to be obtained at a country inn from which the coach starts for Mount Morgan. We were about to enter the principal room in which breakfast was laid out, when one of the assayers, who was employed at the mine, informed us in an awe-struck voice that "the directors" were there; and as the directors of the Mount Morgan mine were evidently too great to be contaminated by the presence of ordinary mortals we betook ourselves to a humbler apartment, where we enjoyed poorer but cheaper fare. We then started in a light four-horse coach, holding eight people besides the driver, in which we jolted along the roughest of roads through "paddocks" of over 3000 acres, with parrots and cockatoos shrieking among the branches of the gum trees overhead. After a drive of between two and three hours through the bush, including the tremendously steep ascent of a hill known as the Razorback, up which every particle of machinery for Mount Morgan had to be brought, we reached the newly-formed mining township. Scattered about among the trees were tents of various descriptions, bark huts, huts of corrugated iron, and wooden houses. In a central position were two hotels, some stores or general shops, a church in process of construction, a school, and an Oddfellow's hall. There are already about 5000 inhabitants, and the object which has attracted them all is a conical shaped hill about 500 ft. in height above the water and with nothing, so far as outward appearances are concerned, to distinguish it from numerous other well-wooded hills which surround it. At the foot of the mountain is one set of works, which are duplicated about half way up it. Some 200 ft. from the top a tunnel runs in for about 700 ft., when it is met by a shaft, down which the stone is sent. It is then brought through the tunnel in small trucks, and shot down a slide to the upper works, while a cable tramway supplies the lower works. At the top of the mountain is a regular quarry, where some five dozen men are occupied in blasting and quarrying the stone.

Fifty-two feet have already been cut away, and they are now working at a second bench. The preponderating stone is a kind of black ironstone, with no appearance of gold whatever, yet it yields as much as five and six ounces to the ton. Some of the stone is reddish, and looks as if it might contain copper, while here and there is a bank of yellowish sand which yields eleven ounces to the ton. Formerly the ore was treated by the ordinary battery and quicksilver amalgamation process, but the gold is so finely distributed through the stone that most of it was lost, and the tailings are being treated with very satisfactory results by the chlorination process which is now in use at the mine. Under this process the ore is first crushed by powerful machinery, and reduced to fine sand. It is then roasted in furnaces, and when cooled is placed in the chlorination barrels, and subjected to the action of chlorine gas, which dissolves the gold, and it flows out in a fluid, the colour of sherry, into large vats. It is then placed in charcoal filters, and the gold adheres to the charcoal beds, which are subsequently roasted in a reverberatory furnace, until nothing is left but an ash containing 75 per cent of metallic gold. The works, which are lit throughout by the electric light, are kept constantly going night and and day. Nine hundred men are employed, and work in three shifts of eight hours each. The expenditure in wages is £100,000 per annum; 4,000 tons of firewood are burnt per month, and the output of gold is about a ton per month. If the works were stopped for a single day, it would mean a loss to the shareholders of £4,000.

Various theories are afloat as to the origin of Mount Morgan. Some believe that it is entirely volcanic; others, and among them Mr. R. L. Sack, the Government Geologist of Queenland, that nothing but a thermal spring could have deposited the material under consideration; while other views have been expressed by different authorities. But as to the extraordinary richness of the ore and the purity of the gold there can be no difference of opinion. One sample of ore has assayed as much as 1300 oz. to the ton, and another over 400 oz., but a steady average of not less than five ounces is maintained. With regard to the quality of gold Dr. Leibius, the director of the Sydney Mint, read a paper in July, 1884, before the Royal Society of New South Wales, on "The remarkable occurrence of gold in Queensland," in which, referring to Locke's statement, in his work on gold, published in 1882, that no gold had yet been found in nature unalloyed with silver, he said that—

'This gold from the Mount Morgan mine, of which since February last already over ten thousand ounces have been received as retorted gold at the Sydney Mint, is found to be free from silver—a minute trace excepted. I have brought some of this retorted gold to show its toughness. It assays 99.7 per cent. of gold; the rest is copper with a trace of iron. Gold assaying 99.7 per cent. is worth £4 4s. 8d. per ounce. Gold from the same mine received at the Mint assayed as high as 99. 8 per cent. It is, as far as I know, the richest native gold hitherto found."

The present company, as has been said, was formed in August, 1886, with 1,000,000 shares of £1 each, and during the year 1887 quarterly dividends of 1s. per share were paid. In 1888 there was one additional dividend of 1s. 6d. per share, and during the first six months of this year the sum of £575,000 was paid in dividends; while it was estimated by the manager in his half-yearly report, published last June, that the total dividends for the year would amount to the enormous sum of £1,200,000, "more than any mine in Australia has ever paid in the whole course of its existence".

Mount Morgan has made many beggars as well as rich men. The shares rushed up in the early part of the year to £16 and £17, and people eagerly bought them without the money to pay for them, in the belief that they would go higher still. When the bills became due they had fallen to £10 or less, and the results were disastrous, but the principal holders of the original shares have become millionaires. The question of absorbing interest with regard to Mount Morgan, as of all other mines, is "How long will it last?"—Times.

Railway Items.

Government has approved the plans and site of the San Jose Station on the North East Argentine. The Station is to be built at kil 53. The sidings between kils. 65 and 79, 182 and 198, have also been approved.

The Inspector-General has urged Government to oblige the Andine Railway to repair the Rio Cuarto Bridge. We have looked over the list of the repairs that are to be made and gather that they are urgent.

The traffic-returns of the Ensenada Line in November were $189,756.

The kilometrage of the Northern Railway last month was: locomotives 129,435; carriages 349,140; wagons 71,836. Total 550,411. The total kilometrage of the Ensenada Line in the same month was 587,600.

In regard to the rumoured delays in the works of the Trenquelanquen extension of the Western Railway, there appears to be no truth in the report that the contractors, had not been paid for two months. The works are being pushed forward, and the line is completed as far as kil. 167, and only 14 kilometres remain to be finished. The extension will be opened to traffic in two months' time. This will make the Western Railway a very valuable concern.

We hear very little of the sale, but we see by the exchanges from La Plata that the Governor, to dispel all obscurity in the wording and meaning of the decree calling for bids, has issued another decree setting forth—(1) That the purchaser shall be at liberty to expropriate all the railway lands that are not included in the purchase; (2) The unification of the tariff tables shall be effected by the Railway Board in agreement with the different railway companies of the Province; (3) The price of the sale shall be considered the capital of the purchasing company, the issue of bonds and the necessary expenditure, which must not exceed 20 per cent on that price, being, moreover, considered as capital: (4) These conditions hold good for the sale of the Temperly-Cañuelas Branch.

EDITOR'S TABLE.

Men and matters in general wore a more cheerful aspect yesterday owing to the fall in the gold premium which was lower than for two months past. Some of the reasons given for the fall in the gold are singular, but, perhaps, none the less true, on that account.

Marshal Fonseca has named himself Generalissimo of the army and navy of Brazil. Napoleon the Great named himself First Consul for life once upon a time.

The Immigration returns show a stiff falling off this month. Only 6000 souls have landed in the first fortnight.

We learn from London that Fred Barrett, the well-known English jockey left for Buenos Ayres on Christmas Eve, on a visit to the River Plate. He expects to return in time for the Lincoln races in the spring of 1890.

We feel much pleasure in welcoming back to the Plate the very Revd. Dr. Fidelis, Provincial of the Passionist Order, who has returned from a visit to the United States.

Mayor Mazza inspected the Drainage Works at Rosario the other day. His worship was accompanied by Mr. Mallet, H.M. Consul, Mr. Boutell, representative of the company, Messrs. Fisher, Bruce, Beal, Wells and others. The party lunched in the main drain, and returned to the upper air much pleased with what they had seen underground.

The London Star says that intense pressure is being brought to bear upon Mr. Labouchere to induce him not to expose the conduct of the Government in reg

Dr. J. Collis Browne's
CHLORODYNE.
THE ORIGINAL AND ONLY GENUINE
Advice to Invalids.—If you wish to obtain quiet refreshing sleep, free from headache, relief from pain and and anguish, to calm and assuage the weary achings of protracted disease, invigorate the nervous media and regulate the circulating systems of the body, you will provide yourself with that marvellous remedy discovered by D. J. Collis Brown, (late Army Medical Staff), to which he gave the name of CHLORODYNE, and which is admitted by the profession to be the most wonderful and valuable remedy ever discovered.
CHLORODYNE is the best remedy known for Coughs, Consumption, Bronchitis, Asthma.
CHLORODYNE acts like a charm in Diarrhœa, and is the only specific in Cholera and Dysentery.
CHLORODYNE effectually cuts short all attacks of Epilepsy, Hysteria, Palpitation, and Spasms.
CHLORODYNE is the only palliative in Neuralgia, Rheumatism, Gout, Cancer, Toothache, Meningitis, &c.
From Symes & Co., Pharmaceutical Chemists, Medical Hall, Simla, January 5 1880. To J. T. Davenport, Esq., 33, Great Russel Street, Bloomsbury, London
Dear Sir,—We embrace this opportunity of congratulating you upon the widespread reputation this justly esteemed medicine, Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne, has earned for itself, not only in Hindostan; but all over the East. As a remedy for general utility, we must question whether a better is imported into the country, and we shall be glad to hear of its finding a place in every Anglo-Indian home. The other brands, we are so sorry to say, are now relegated to the native bazaars, and, judging from their sale, we fancy their sojourn there will be but evanescent. We could multiply instances "ad infinitum" of the extraordinary efficacy of Dr. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne in Diarrhœa and Dysentery, Spasms, Cramps, Neuralgia, the Vomiting of Pregnancy, and as a general sedative that have occurred under our personal observation during many years. In Choleraic Diarrhœa, and even in the more terrible forms of Cholera itself, we have witnessed its surprisingly controlling power. We have never used any other form of this medicine than Collis Browne's from a firm Conviction that it is decidedly the best, and also from a sense of duty we owe to the profession and the public, as we are of opinion that the substitution of any other than Collis Browne's is a deliberate Breach of Faith on the part of the Chemist to prescribe and Patient alike. We are, Sir, faithfully yours, Symes and Co., Members of the Pharm. Society of Great Britain. His Excellency the Viceroy's Chemists.
Caution.—Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Page Wood stated that Dr J. Collis Browne, was, undoubtedly, the Inventor of Chlorodine; that the story of the defendant Freeman was deliberately untrue, which he regretted to say, had been sworn to,—See "The Times," July 13, 1864.
Sold in bottles at 1s. 1 1/2d., 2s. 9d., 4s. 6d., and 11s. each. None is genuine without the words "Dr. J. Collis Browne's Chlorodyne" on the Government stamp. Overwhelming medical testimony accompanies each bottle.
Caution.—Beware of Piracy and Imitations.

in Misiones to Dr. Cardalda for 650,000 dollars. The estate comprises three square leagues, and the business is the largest reported in the market for some time. A few months ago such businesses were of ordinary occurrence; to-day, however, anything over half-a-million dollars astonishes the market. Such is the change that a few months has worked in this market.

A decree has been issued exempting the Curumulan camps from direct taxes for ten years.

The Banco del Comercio has declared a provisional dividend of five dollars per share, payable from Monday next.

The meeting of shareholders of the French Bank summoned for to-day could not take place, owing to the requisite number of shares not being represented. It has been consequently re-summoned for the 27th inst., on which date the meeting of the Italian Bank also takes place.

In the produce markets prices rule stiff and high, as the fall in gold has not yet begun to take effect. Rates, in fact, now are even higher than the level at beginning of December, which was considered high water mark. Very little wool is coming in, which may neutralize the effect of the fall in gold.

The "krach" in the gold tub at the second hour was so pronounced that the hall filled rapidly as in olden times, and even the somnolent stocks began to put in an appearance on the board. Fast and furious the gold was banged away for to-morrow, until the close of the hour found the quotation weak and collapsing at 222, thus shewing a fall of five points on the day. For dates, the business done was smaller, and rates kept a little firmer, closing at 223.60 for end of month and 223 for end of February. Stocks in general seemed better, though very little was done.

The following is a summary of operations effected this evening at the second ring:—

Mr. Angel Sastre, chairman of the San Nicolas Port Company, has submitted to Government for approval the hydrographic surveys effected in the Parana, in front of the lands held by the company in San Nicolas. These lands stretch from the rails of the Provincial Railway to the Arroyo Ramallo. These surveys include plans, moles, branch lines, deposits, etc. All the plans have been drawn up by Engineer Toledo. The proposed port is very much needed, owing to the growing dimensions of the sand bank in front of San Nicolas.

The Home Minister sent to-day a note to the representatives of the lessees of the City Improvement Works, informing them that he must enforce the tariff decreed by the Government, and make it extensive to all arrears under the previous provisional tariff, which is now null and void.

Passengers arrived per Royal Mail s.s. Elbe:—Mr Lockhart, Miss I Harries, Mr G Liebmann, Mr A Calvacanti, Mr Robert Kibby, Mr C Jillings, Dr H Hadden, Capt M Roldan, Mr H Hagan, Rev. J Kent. Messrs. William Samson and Co. report the arrival of the steam lighter Mariposa from Glasgow. She passed in Lat. 16 deg 17 min. S., Long. 31 deg. 44 min. W., at 6 p.m., on Thursday, the 2nd inst., the barque Ethel, of London, from London for Bria bane, which wished to be reported all well.

Mr. W. Morgan, of corned beef fame, was welcomed to-day from Tuyu and Magdalena, where his establishments are hard at work, turning out corned beef and tongues. The Tuyu establishment has already turned out this season over twenty thousand tins, and the Magdalena establishment sixty thousand. Mr. Morgan expects before the year is over to turn out a quarter of a million tins in Magdalena alone.

The steamship Kohn cleared to-day for Bremen direct with 3200 salted hides and 2600 bales of wool; freight twenty-five marks.

The steamship Denderah, same line, arrived yesterday from Valparaiso and takes 856 bales for Hamburg.

The steamship Frankfurt, which is expected in port to-day, has engaged 2900 bales at the same freight.

The courteous agents of the Dutch Steam Navigation Company have kindly favoured us with the following interesting particulars of the accident to the s.s. Leerdam:—

"The steamer Leerdam was in collision with the s.s. Gaw-Chuan-Sia about 30 miles north of North Hinder, during a dense fog. The captain of the Leerdam was on the bridge, and all precautions were taken. After the collision the two steamers could not possibly be parted. At 8 o'clock in the morning the passengers and crew left the steamer in the lifeboats, but remained near the Leerdam, which sank at 2 p.m. The passengers and crew were taken on board the French steamer Emma and landed on Wednesday in the afternoon at Cuxhaven."

The following is a list of the first class passengers:—

Mr. M. Renchlin, Mrs. R. Doyer Bolt, Mr. C. du Ry Van Beest Holle, Mr. J. de Baart Az, Mrs J. de Baart, Mr A. de Baart, Mrs M. de Baart, Mrs D. Hoeh, Mr G. Van Houten, Mr E. A. Chariner, Mr J. W. Braehman, Mr A E. Roux, Mr Archibald McMillan, Mr James F. Boals, Mrs A M E. Heine.

A new industry about to be started is an establishment for the manufacture of extract of quebracho, Mr. Dontrelan, the engineer, being already hard at work raising the buildings at Puerto Casado. The wood is reduced to sawdust by means of a combination of large saws, and then boiled down. The works are calculated to cost 100,000 gold dollars.

Yesterday the Italian bq. Dogali, with 1200 tons Cadiz salt for Fray Bentos, struck on a rock in Martin Garcia channel and went to the bottom. The captain and crew were all saved, being rescued by the Chargeurs Reunis steamer Concordia. Damages are calculated at 20,000 dols. gold, the cargo being insured.
